

The Lid Was Put On In Dothan Sunday

BY ORDER OF CHIEF OF POLICE ALL TIGERS WERE CLOSED SUNDAY

By order of Police Chief Domingus, the lid was on in Dothan Sunday and a tight one it was. All the places were ordered to close to observe the Sabbath and those refusing to do so were arrested to be tried this afternoon in mayor's court. Restaurants and soft drink stands were allowed to do business as usual only they had strict orders to leave the wet goods off the menu.

All stores and business houses dealing in the fluid were ordered to keep the doors locked all day and those going into them were to be arrested for open doors.

Two tigers in Dixie refused to obey the chief's orders and were arrested, but beside this the prohibition laws were practically enforced in Dothan, for a whole day. The "rummies" were forced to find other hanging-out places on account of the move and the lid was declared to be on tighter than any time within the past six or eight months.

O. T. Belcher leaves tomorrow for Montgomery to take Mrs. J. A. V. Lambert to an infirmary in that city.

HOW WE GOT OUT

Many are surprised to see the Eagle on the streets this afternoon knowing that the machines are run by electric power and that there is none about the town. The press was run by a 4 horse-power Yale motorcycle, which was attached to the belt the same as the motor. The back end of the motorcycle was raised and when the machine was started, the press ran as it usually does.

THE ALL-DAY SINGING

There will be an all-day Sacred Harp Singing at the Headland Avenue Baptist church at Dothan on Wednesday after the first Sunday in April, at 9:30 a. m. The class will be called to order by a welcome address by H. C. Copeland. A splendid program will be arranged and everybody is cordially invited to come and bring a basket.

Let us have a good old time all day singing. Don't forget the day, Wednesday, April the 5th.

Mrs. I. H. McGrady returned last night from a visit to Hilton, Ga.

YOUNG MEN AT HUNTER'S HAVE ANOTHER VISITOR

It seems that Messrs. McAndrew and Andrews the two young men rooming at the Hunter house, are very popular with midnight marauders. Their latest visitor came last night or rather this morning about 2 o'clock, and this time was met by Mr. Andrews. Last night's burglar also escaped and after running to the corner of the porch, jumped to the ground with a sickening thud, following exactly the trail taken by the burglar with whom Mr. McAndrew had the lively encounter on Thursday night.

As it will be remembered, Mr. McAndrew on last Thursday evening awoke and found a man in their room. He jumped upon him and after a lively scuffle the burglar managed to break away, running to the end of the porch and jumping to the ground below. He escaped.

Last night Mr. Andrews awoke as he heard foot steps lightly falling on the tin roof on the porch below him, and rushed to the window. The intruder was coming from the same place as the one of the previous night and the first thing that he thought of was that it was the same one he had called again. As he raised the window the caller rushed on the porch and not unlike the McAndrew burglar escaped by jumping to the grass below. Mr. Andrews recognized the so-called burglar and reported it to his friends this morning, but refused positively to disclose the fellow's identity until he had seen him and learned the nature of his visit. He stated to the large crowd at the Walker house this morning that he was white and well known to both the young men and therefore created much excitement among the fellow boarders. None of them were told who it was that had been so nifty, but were informed that the Eagle would put him wise this afternoon.

It was Wallace's old white cat that caused so much comment, but it is still unknown as to who the burglar was with whom McAndrew had the life and death struggle, the night before.

POWER HOUSE BREAKS DOWN

A flue in the boiler at the power plant broke today about noon and as a result the city is without water and electric current. The engineers have been at work since trying to get the other two boilers in condition, but up until a late hour have not been able to do so. City Engineer Picher stated this afternoon that he expected to get the other boilers running late this afternoon and that the city would likely have lights tonight.

Picture shows, newspapers, guano plants, foundries, and many other enterprises in the city are unable to run this afternoon and a large number of people are affected by the breakdown.

DETECTIVE IS SHOT DOWN

Middlesboro, Ky., March 26.—Lying from ambush, an unknown assassin shot down Railroad Detective Rose at Baxter station, Harlan county, last night. News of the shooting reached here today when Rose was brought to this city on a special train.

Rose had been employed by the Louisville and Nashville railroad and it is believed the shooting was done by some one who cherished a grudge against him because of work he has been conducting against marauders.

Rose was nearing the railroad station preparatory to boarding a train when he fell probably fatally wounded, two bullets imbedded in his head. Blood hounds will be placed on the trail.

Wanted To Torture Booker T's Assailant

THE ASSAULT ON WASHINGTON ANGERED NEGRO PREACHER

New York, March 26.—At a mass meeting of more than 500 negroes in the Bethel A. M. E. Church today, resolutions were adopted expressing confidence in and affection for Dr. Booker T. Washington, the negro educator who recently was injured during an encounter with Albert Ulrich, a white man in this city. President Taft was warmly praised for sending his letter of sympathy to Dr. Washington, following the alleged assault.

Rev. R. G. Ransom, pastor of the church, in opening the meeting said:

"If Dr. Washington had been a white man, this meeting would not be necessary; not because we care less for a worthy man of the white race, but when an accusation however unjust or a suspicion however unfounded, is lodged against a negro, public sentiment may be more quickly inflamed and if a white woman gives her word, it would stand against the whole world so far as a negro's word is concerned. We are not here to assail the discredited accusers of Dr. Washington, but to vouch for our confidence in him."

Rev. A. C. Powell said: "When I first saw the papers with the account of the assault of Dr. Washington I felt like getting a mob and stringing the man responsible for it by the thumbs, but a minute later I changed my mind and knew that nothing since the emancipation would so tend to help the negro race or bring it closer together than this very thing."

Will Not Prosecute Ulrich

Philadelphia, Pa., March 26.—Booker T. Washington today intimated that he would drop the case against Albert Ulrich, of New York, who is alleged to have assaulted him a week ago, when in the vestibule of his home.

"I understand that Mr. Ulrich has a daughter and that recently several attempts have been made to kidnap her. The man was constantly on the watch, suspecting another attempt and in these circumstances, I can readily believe he would have attacked any man, white or black, as he did me."

Washington declared that under the circumstances, he believed Ulrich was justified in attacking him or any other man.

SCHOOL TOMORROW

It has been reported about the city that the schools would be closed tomorrow and for the rest of the week on account of the water being cut off. This is a mistake and the pupils were given orders this afternoon to come back to school tomorrow morning regardless of water.

There is no complaint in this section about dryness. We have had enough rain to put everybody to work.

A New York man was sent to jail for five days, they say, for refusing to pay his poll tax. Probably the fellow hadn't had a decent bid for his vote.

The weather man is in bad standing in this town. He wired us Saturday that we were to have fair weather that day and Sunday. When the telegram was received it was raining, and it continued to rain till the dry spell he spoke of had been made the wettest of the season.

There is a bill before the legislature with a clause in it to make people assess their property for the amount that it is insured for. Whenever a state administration gets to that point in revenue raising it is time for a protest, but like many others, protests do no good. There isn't a business man or a business organization in Alabama that favors that clause.

The Watterson Code

Henry Watterson, one of America's greatest journalists, is said to have the following creed:

"To print nothing of a man which we would not say to his face, to print nothing of a man in malice, to look well and think twice before consigning a suspect to the ruin of a printer's ink; to respect the old and befriend the weak; and lastly, at work and at play, day time and night time, to be good to the girls and square to the boys, for hath it not been written 'Of such is the kingdom of heaven'?"

SHOW WORK

Talk about your machines for facilitating work, they may act alright in private corporations, but when you put one in the hands of the government, three men take a seat, and draw pay, while the fourth operates the machine.

When the census work began, almost a year ago, there was much said about some new adding machines the census department had installed, for the purpose of giving the people quick work.

Not having seen the bill, we don't know how many machines they installed, but the school children can tell you that they have not been a success in getting up the figures quickly. We are well advanced in 1911, and the reports have not been completed. We know the population of some of the towns and cities, and the total of some of the states, but this information is worth but little to the public.

Every newspaper office in the country would like to have some figures showing the population of every town and hamlet in the United States. Just when this information will be available, no one seems to know.

Oh You Dothan

Under the above heading the Bullock County Breeze hoots at the idea of Dothan's trying to get the shops of some supposed railroad. We haven't heard much about the building of the railroad the Breeze refers to, but it is safe to say that if the road really comes to Dothan, as so many of them do, that the shops will be located here, although, so far as the Eagle knows, no effort has been made along that line.

Railroads usually know a good town when they see it, and if a road is coming to Dothan from Union Springs, or any other section, we are sure that the builders or promoters, will wisely decide to locate their shops here.

Glad the matter has been called to our attention.

Here is the way the Breeze puts it:

Union Spring citizens were in aignant this week when the story was circulated that the little one horse town Dothan was making a strenuous effort to have the railroad shops of the U. S. & N. located there. It is said that all the city fathers of that town have their backs bent hard to the wheel and are sweating blood in their efforts to get the shops. The shops will not go to Dothan if Union Springs turns a hand for here is the home of the road, where it was born and raised and where the shops must be. With the completion of the extension and the pushing of the road on into new territory good shops must be established and it is natural that every jerk water town has aspirations to make a bid for the shops.

THE GOVERNOR KNOWS BEST

The bill in which the newspapers of the State were interested and which allowed the publisher to exchange their space for a mile-age railroad book managed to run the gauntlet of both houses of the legislature but met its Waterloo by the governor's veto. The Governor took occasion to explain in his veto that the press is a very influential factor in steering this old ship of state and as a rule the editors are smart, lightened, honorable gentlemen, and should be kept, like Caesar's wife, above suspicion. But our experience has been that the politician and officeholder wield more influence over the press than the railroads or other corporations. These are different times we are living in, however, and the position of the Governor may be right to protect the integrity of the press by prohibiting this exchange. To say the least it encourages manhood. Space is about all most of we publishers have to exchange and the next politician who offers to swap us a yearling calf for his announcement fee we are going to shoot him on the spot and appeal to the governor to pardon. Our influence is worth cold dollars, not syrup and cord wood. In this we are protected by law and the constitution and if the minor executive officers will not protect us from further insult from those who would try to buy our influence on the exchange plan we propose to protect ourselves and risk an appeal to the Governor. It really makes us feel proud for the Governor to say in such a nice way that we are strong factors in running this great state. And when you come to analyze the situation there is really more protection of personal liberty in what the Governor has done to protect our homes from the search for the jug of liquor than he could possibly have done been by allowing us to exchange our newspaper space for a railroad mileage book. Without the liquor we would stay at home, but with the liquor darn the pass we can walk.—Marion Standard

THE HALCYON DAYS

When people grow old their thoughts turn backward, and distance lends enchantment to the view. Nearly every venerable man believes that the world was better, and people were more virtuous, and the sun shone brighter when he was young. The rich man talks about the golden days when he lived in a cottage. The railroad manager recalls the grand old times when he was a section hand. The able editor, basking in luxury, looks back yearningly to the happy hours when he was a cub reporter.

The other day a venerable negro woman, of unusual intelligence, was interviewed by an enterprising reporter for a Missouri paper. She was born in slavery and was held in bondage until after she was married and had children. She informed the reporter that she had never been happy or prosperous since the grand old days of slavery, and she probably believed what she said. She was of the opinion that the worst thing that ever happened to the negroes was their emancipation.

Many of the old negroes talk the same way. In the South you will find scores of them who cast longing, lingering looks behind, and intimate that slavery was the Income from property is derived from rents and the increase in value due to the increase in the population of a city.

Experience has proved that vacant property well located, free from insurance charges, is one of the most valuable classes of investments. The increase in rents on close in property drives people to the ownership of vacant property farther out and therefore brings it into demand.
